Kidnapping case goes to grand jury

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — A Lincoln County man accused of trying to kidnap a 13-month-old boy has bonded out of jail while his case has been waived to a grand jury.

The infant's father, Lancaster Police Sgt. Rick Shearer, said Monday he's glad the case against Patrick Rogers, 49, of Waynesburg, is moving forward without any reduction in charges. But he and his family are still dealing with the emotional effects of the alleged kidnapping.

"We're more vigil. We're so nervous we don't even want to step out of the same room with him right now," Shearer said. "I'm constantly checking on him, making sure he's in his bed."

Stanford council finalizes property tax rate for 2013

STANFORD — Stanford City Council gave final approval last week to keeping the city's property tax rates the same as they were last year.

The real estate and personal property tax rate will stay at 13.1 cents per $100 of assessed value, meaning a homeowner with a $100,000 property will pay $13.10.

Stanford anticipates receiving $227,000 in property tax revenue this year. Last year, the city budgeted to get about $203,000 from property taxes.

MCKINNEY — Stanford EMS has stationed an ambulance and EMS personnel in the McKinney community in order to shorten response times to the area.

The ambulance and its crew are currently spending 10-12 hours, five days a week stationed at Lincoln County Fire Station No. 4, said Ashley Powell, director of Stanford EMS.

"I think the concern was the citizens not having coverage," Powell said Monday. "We decided to be proactive in that and staff an ambulance down there at least part-time."

Absenteeism big obstacle to student success

By Billy Harris
Lincoln County High School

The mission of Lincoln County High School is to provide a safe and positive learning environment along with rigorous, intentional instruction in all classrooms and programs through a culture of pride, high expectations, accountability and involvement by all stakeholders.

When I read the mission statement of LCHS, the two words that stand out to me most are accountability and involvement. We as educators are accountable for the well-being of your children, as well as the education they receive while in school. We are also responsible in seeing that your child is involved in all his/her classes while attending LCHS.

But the one factor that we have little control of is your child's attendance. This is one critical area in which we need you, the parents, to really step up and do everything in your power to get your child to school each and every day.

Parents can help by instilling the habit of attending school each and every day by showing interest in what is going on in school and classes. Parents should stay involved by monitoring their child's progress and grades, communicating with teachers and administrators, and attending school functions or sporting events.

The importance of your commitment to school attendance sends a message to your child that education is a priority in your family, and that going every day is critical in the full educational process.

Research shows that your child's attendance record may be the biggest factor influencing his/her academic success. If your child is not at school, then he/she cannot attend the classes necessary to ensure that he/she receives the best education possible.

Lincoln County High School has made great strides recently in improving our College and Career Readiness rate and our ACT scores. The one thing that hasn't gotten better over the past two years is our attendance rate.

Our attendance rate over the past two years hasn't reached 94 percent. Lincoln County High School has approximately 1,100 students that should be walking the halls on any one day, but the attendance rate of approximately 93.5 percent means there are approximately 60-70 students absent every day.

Just imagine how our College and Career Readiness rate and our ACT scores would soar if we were able to move our attendance rate to 96 percent or greater this year. That would mean 20-30 fewer students absent each day. If students are at school, then they are exposed to many learning opportunities that enhance their educational experience and thus get them ready for college or the workplace.

Absenteeism is a problem in many Kentucky schools across the state and this does include Lincoln County Schools. If your student misses 10 percent of the school year, then they are considered a chronically absent student. To be chronically absent, a student had to miss 17 or more days of school.

Seventeen absences from school is more than three weeks that your student missed his/her classes. When a student misses 17 or more days of school, it makes things very difficult for the student because they cannot keep up with daily lessons and assignments or take tests and quizzes on time.

The achievement in classes is greatly affected if a student is chronically absent from school or class. Furthermore students who are chronically absent may not develop the responsibility, self-discipline and effective work skills that are essential to get them through school and life.

As a parent, you may ask yourself "what can I do?" There is a great deal that you can do to enhance your child's educational experience and ensure that they receive the best education possible. The following suggestions are just a few things that you can do to help your child value his/her education and make it clear to them that their education is priority to you.

- Help get your child to school on time every day
- Follow the school's attendance guidelines and policies when it comes to absences
- Try to limit the amount of time that your child misses due to doctor's visits or medical appointments
- Plan ahead: Lay out the next day's clothes and pack lunches the night before
- Promote good health
- Stay updated on school events and announcements
- Check homework
- Take an active role:

Stay involved with your child's daily experiences

By making your child's school attendance a priority, you will be taking an important role in supporting your child's education and preparing them for their life ahead. Remember: every day counts!

Putting a 'face to faith'

Getting to know people with different beliefs best way to stop religious intolerance around the globe

No quick fix — diplomatic or military — will dissolve the centuries of distrust and rivalry that fuel the sectarian conflict in Syria, where Alawites and Shiites are pitted against Sunnis, with Christians caught in the crossfire.

The same can be said of the many other religious and ethnic wars raging around the globe.

In the past week alone, Buddhists burned Muslim shops and homes in Burma, a Muslim mob stormed a Coptic church in Egypt, and radical Sunni Muslims attacked minority Shiite Muslims in central Pakistan.

Americans may be tempted to see religious violence as someone else's problem, living as we do in country blessedly free of holy wars for much of our history (thanks, in large measure, to the religious liberty principles of the First Amendment).

But our angry culture wars, while rarely violent, are warning signs that no society is immune from the pernicious effects of religious division and intolerance. Anti-Semitism,

INSIDE THE FIRST AMENDMENT

Charles C. Haynes
Guest columnist

Islamophobia and hate crimes motivated by religious bias are all found in the United States today.

Humanity faces many daunting challenges in the 21st century. But none is greater — or more urgent — than the challenge of negotiating new ways to live with our religious and ethnic differences.

That brings me to the good news this week. While the world debates how to respond to the latest atrocity in Syria, some 800 schools in 20 countries are taking the long view by preparing the next generation to do better.

These schools, including 100 in the United States, are part of an initiative called "Face to Faith" that is offered free to schools by the Tony Blair Faith Foundation. (Disclosure: I serve as U.S. advisor to the program.)

Face to Faith is a simple, but profound, approach to dispelling stereotypes and creating understanding across religious differences. Through videoconferencing and a secure online community, students engage one another directly in civil, but robust, dialogue about issues of faith and belief that matter to them.

It works. Students in Indian schools, for example, are connecting to students in Pakistani schools — an extraordinary development in a region long plagued by inter-religious animosity and violence.

Through direct engagement, students are able to put a human face on the "other" and build bridges of understanding across religious and cultural divides.

As one high school student in Utah put it, "the opportunity to participate in this program has blown all the misconceptions that I had out of the water and caused me to try harder to understand people from all places and circumstances."

Although Face to Faith is in only 100 American schools thus far, plans are underway to expand that number to 1,000 public and private American schools over the next several years.

In a world torn by sectarian violence and hate, the success of Face to Faith is a reminder that we can — and must — do much more to help young people experience our common humanity.

"Even though religions don't have the same laws, beliefs and concepts," said a student from New York, "Face to Faith has taught me that people hundreds of miles away are going through the same experiences as me."

Reading and math are important. But even more important are the kinds of human beings that read the books and do the math. Learning to respect one another across our deepest differences is the real work of education.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Magistrate responds to rumors about county hiring process

I hesitate to respond to rumors, but when innocent people are harmed by untruths, I cannot stand by without addressing the issue. Without mentioning names, I want to address the hiring process Lincoln county government used to fill the ONE vacancy resulting from the retirement of our long time treasurer and occupational tax administrator.

Only one vacancy occurred because when Lee Ann Smith was hired as finance officer a few years ago, we explained she was to be work closely with the treasurer because at the time the treasurer retired, we need a smooth transition to the new treasurer.

In order to streamline the government offices, we began a discussion of how we could have employees accept additional responsibilities. We were fortunate to have an employee that was prepared to accept the finance officer position while maintaining the bulk of her existing job.

So, we were left with the task of finding a replacement for our long time occupational tax administrator. This is a critical position that provides the bulk of our local revenue.

Our KACo attorneys explained we had to advertise the position. We had intended to do just that, but as a rule we consult with the legal staff at KACo and with our County Attorney on the proper process. Therefore, we took applications and formed a committee to interview applicants.

The committee consisted of the Judge Executive and two government employees from the financial area. One applicant simply stood out as the clear pick. The lady left her position a Controller for the Tennessee National Guard where she oversaw a $250 million budget. Interestingly she also has a law degree.

Her only reason for leaving her job was...love! She married the new Pastor of Stanford Christian Church. She is a great addition to local government.

There have been stories on the street that a former employee was promised the position by a former Judge Executive. I have no idea if this is true or not. However no one on this Fiscal Court promised anyone the job. And the former employees reason for being "former" was her choice. She told the Judge is she wasn't getting the tax administrator job, she was quitting! And she did.

I regret her decision, but I regret more that our new employee has been put in this position. If anyone wants more detail or wants to discuss this with me, I am easy to find.

Sara's notes

By Sara Givens

To bloom where we are planted brings joy to us and those who encounter us. It doesn't mean we lose our identity, but instead we respond appropriately out of who we are, whatever our situation.

On Sept. 15, the members of First Baptist Church, Crab Orchard, will celebrate the 12th pastoral anniversary of their pastor, Elder Oliver Miller at 3 p.m. Rev. Patrick Alcorn will be the guest preacher for the morning worship service and Rev. Ronnie McCowan and congregation of Bethel Baptist Church, Danville, will be the 3 p.m. guests. Dinner will be served and everyone is cordially invited.

Mr. William "Bill" Helm underwent surgery at the University of Kentucky Medical Center and remains a patient there.

It was a beautiful weekend in Lexington for the Simson/Hayes family reunion that was held at the Ramada Conference Center. Approximately 85 family members and friends met on Friday, Saturday and Sunday for days full of fun, and fond memories of the past, present and then a look to the future.

Boneyville was the beginning of our venture and now to Lexington. Folks from Ohio, Georgia, Mississippi, Illinois and of course Kentucky sat back and enjoyed the time with one another. There were three people there that was of age 89 plus those being Mrs. Virginia Arnette, Mrs. Annie Howard and Mr. Eugene Jones. Mrs. Krystal Burdette did a spiritual routine topped off by the keynote speaker, Dr. Lorenzo Suter of Chicago, Ill., both were dynamic! The children had fun swimming, etc.

The 31st family reunion was quite a success - as door prizes were given away. Rosanna Stewart of Mississippi came the farthest and Miss Trudy Gooch won the "big" gift. Everyone had a wonderful time, lasting memories and precious time with farmy and friends. God has smiled again on the Simpson/Hayes family reunion.

On Sunday, the memorial service was held and afterwards, after a wonderful weekend - we all said our goodbyes - and thanked God for our many blessings.

Thought for the week: It doesn't hurt to be happy - but in the process, try to make someone else happy also.

An encouraging word A reminder of a basic truth

By Howard Coop

For many people, Saturday, Sept. 14, will be an ordinary day. As usual, it will pass without special note. But for others, the day may be different; for them, it will have special significance. While it is not a holiday, it is the 199th anniversary of the writing of our beloved national anthem.

In 1814, a war, known as the War of 1812, was raging, and Francis Scott Key, an attorney from Washington, went to the Chesapeake Bay near Fort McHenry to visit the British fleet to attempt to secure the release of Dr. William Beanes, a civilian prisoner of war held by the British. During the night of Sept. 13, 1814, the British attacked Fort McHenry, and Key watched through the night as "the rocket's red glare and the bombs bursting in air gave proof" to him "that our flag was still there." Then, "By the dawns early light" on the morning of September 14, he saw that our flag was still waving over Fort McHenry, and he knew that the fort had withstood the British siege.

Because of that dreadful experience, Key "was so moved" that "he vented" his feelings by writing a poem on September 14, 1814 that he entitled The Defense of Fort McHenry. After the poem was published on September 20, 1814 in a Baltimore newspaper, it immediately became popular, and the name was changed to The Star Spangled Banner. Then, 117 years later, in 1931, by an Act of Congress that was signed into law by President Herbert Hoover, the Star Spangled Banner became the national anthem of the United States of America and has remained so for 82 years.

The Sar Spangled Banner, beloved as it is, should be more than a national anthem to be sung on special occasions. It should be a poignant reminder of a basic truth: There is a glimmer of hope in the worst situations we face. Therefore we do not give up; we keep on going.

Scam Alert: Retirees receiving fake letter from auditor

Auditor Adam Edelen has alerted law enforcement and the public of a fraudulent letter that is being circulated among retirees.

The letter claims the Auditor's office has discovered that some 26,000 people were overpaid and that a field agent would contact them for repayment. The letter contains a forged signature of a former Auditor.

The public should be aware that the Auditor's office has no such findings of overpayment and that no collection of funds would be sought.

It is unclear how many retirees have received the letter. The Kentucky Retirement Systems and Kentucky Teachers' Retirement System have been notified of the scam.

There will be only one worship service on Sunday, Sept. 15. The deacons will service breakfast beginning at 9 a.m. with Sunday School Life Groups following at 10 a.m. and worship at 11 a.m. Hope to see you there!

"Praise Him, We Are Standing on Holy Ground, and These Are the Days of Elijah" were congregational hymns on Sunday, Sept. 8. A line in the last hymn is "There is no god like Jehovah" that is so very true. No one nor anything can ever compare to Jehovah!

Katelynn McWhorter sang a special Sunday morning: "This Is Just What Heaven Means to Me." Bro. Kyle's message was taken from Romans 15:1-7 and was on "What a Mature Christian Is Like."

Bro. Kyle spoke about the three qualities God wants in the lives of a mature Christian. How we mature as a Christian, how we help other Christians to grow, and how we help those who don't know Christ to learn about Him were the three qualities.

Being patient, encouraging, and involved in church, family, and community are ways to develop. We develop, not only our own leadership qualities, but we also help others envision spiritual growth. Diligently seeking out God's will in our lives through prayer is an uppermost component in spiritual leadership.

Bro. Jamie and Elisha concluded the service by singing "The more I seek You, the more I find You. The more I find You, the more I love You."

Grandparents' Day - What is it? Jimmy Carter signed the National holiday of Grandparents' Day into existence in 1978. It is always the first Sunday following Labor Day. This year it was Sept. 8, and hopefully, everyone was able to pay tribute to his grandparent's in a special way.

There is no Senior Fellowship for September. Our next fellowship will be on Wednesday, Oct. 23; bring you favorite life story to share with everyone at the fellowship.

Our church will be kicking off Operation Christmas

Child (OCC) on Sept. 15 at 6:30 p.m. Nicki Johnson from Casey County will be speaking about her experience distributing the shoeboxes in Zambia, Africa this past spring. Make plans to hear her if you are not committed elsewhere.

The Sunday School Life Group Emphasis has set the following as special dates in September: Sept. 15-Sunday School Life Group Breakfast; Sept. 22-Open House; and Sept. 29-Youth Sunday.

Thought for the week: "Those who follow the crowd usually get lost in it!"

News from Fairview Baptist Church

By Shelby Lakes

On Sunday, Bro. Johnny Baker continued his series of messages taken from the book of Revelation. In Revelation 2:18-29, Jesus is giving John a message for the church of Thyatira. (There is much figurative language in these verses.)

Thyatira, Bro. Johnny said, had been destroyed and rebuilt several times. It was a military outpost purposed to guard Pergamos. The city had a small temple, but also one to worship the sun god. The churches had become corrupt, particularly the church of Thyatira.

Jesus' message for the church of Thyatira said there was a woman there, whom he called Jezebel, who called herself a prophet. The woman was teaching false doctrine; she had not repented, so Jesus said he would cast those who follow her into great tribulation.

Even today, Bro. Johnny said, people don't want to hear the word of God, except in a compromised form. We need to teach our children the right doctrine in our homes, Bro. Johnny said, or someone else will teach them theirs.

Jesus said some good things about the church of Thyatira in verse 19. He said He knew their charity, service and their works. Jesus said to hold fast to those good things until He comes, and He would give those that hold fast to the good things power over nations. "And I will give him the morning star," Jesus says in verse 28.

Bro. Johnny said we have two directives in these verses: 1) Repent or 2) Suffer with your teachers if you are corrupted. (End of sermon summary)

Henry and Darlene Smith celebrated their anniversary. Celebrating birthdays were Danielle Rice and Greg Hill.

113 attended Sunday school; 171 were present for the worship service.

Final preparations under way for DYW scholarship program

By Nancy Leedy

The 12 Lincoln County High School senior girls participating in the Lincoln County Distinguished Young Women (DYW) scholarship program have just nine days left to perfect their routines before the curtain opens on the 2014 program.

Weeks of practices, mock interviews, talent pre-shows and dress rehearsals will come to an end next Saturday, Sept. 21 at 6:30 p.m. when the 12 DYW hopefuls – Mallory Bridgman, Alyssa Turner, Madeline Adams, Annalise Fegan, Maggie Taylor, Gentry Lewis, Brittany Simpson, Tarren Fisher, Shelby Morgan, Chelsea Padgett, Kendra Mullins and Dakota Roberts – take the stage of the Stuart Underwood Auditorium to compete for over $18,000 in cash scholarships.

The Lincoln County DYW, which has been the top program in Kentucky for scholarships raised for over 15 years, has over $800,000 in college-offered scholarships also available to the participants.

The winner of the 2014 Lincoln DYW title will receive a $4,000 cash scholarship. The first runner-up in the program will receive a $3,000 cash scholarship while the second runner-up receives $2,000, and the third runner-up, $1,000.

Because Distinguished Young Women is a scholastic program high academic performance will be well rewarded. A $1,000 cash scholarship will be awarded to the overall scholastic achievement winner. A $350 cash scholarship will go to the scholastic runner-up and two other scholastic preliminary winners will receive $300 apiece.

To earn scholarship awards, the DYW candidates are evaluated in a total of five categories, including scholastics. Forty-five percent of the evaluation of candidates, scholastic achievement (20 percent) and interview (25 percent) will be completed prior to the program. The remaining 55 percent is judged on stage with talent accounting for 25 percent of the participant's total score and fitness and self-expression accounting for 15 percent each.

Four awards will be presented in each of the preliminary areas of interview, talent, self-expression and fitness. The interview and talent award recipients will each receive a $400 cash scholarship and the self-expression and fitness winners will each receive a $250 cash scholarship.

In addition, a $500 Jennifer Baker Memorial "Be Your Best Self" Award and a $500 Spirit of DYW Award will be presented.

Christy Thomas McGuire returns as program emcee.

Tickets for the 2014 program are $8 and are on sale now. To order tickets in advance, call (606) 365-9782.

Golden Living to celebrate Active Aging Week Sept. 23-27

The Golden Living Center of Stanford invites the people of Lincoln County to join them in celebrating Active Aging Week Sept. 23-27.

As part of the fifth annual Walk with Aegis Therapies event, the facility's team of physical, occupational, and speech therapists will lead the residents and staff of Golden Living Center in this five-day celebration with planned daily walking activities. Additionally, each day will feature other wellness activities including intellectual, emotional, spiritual, occupational and social wellness.

First Southern National Bank of Stanford is the sponsor of the week's closing ceremony events which will include a party for the residents, free various wellness checks by Lifeline Home Health, Care Tenders Home Health, and Gentiva Home Health, and a final "Walk for Active Aging" in the facility's neighborhood. Precision Fitness is sponsoring the event with the donation of gym memberships and chiropractic visits.

Participants in the "Walk for Active Aging" will be sponsored by First Southern National Bank of Stanford with funds raised going to support Golden Living Center's Dementia Care Program, a program developed by the Speech Therapy department that aims to help patients with dementia. Dementia is a disease characterized by a gradual decline in memory, orientation, problem solving and communication skills.

Mr. Bill Phillips is a resident of Golden Living Center who has already benefited from the Dementia Care Program. Mr. Phillips, a lifelong resident of Lincoln County, is a husband, father, retired business owner and farmer. Because of dementia, Mr. Phillips had begun to have more and more problems with his memory skills. He often forgot to ask for help with standing or walking, and because his legs are weak, the staff at Golden Living Center feared he would fall and be injured. The speech therapists, along with Mr. Phillips' family, created a "Busy Box" for him. The "Busy Box" contains various hands-on activities that are interesting and familiar to Mr. Phillips such as tools, paint brushes, and other colorful objects. Whenever Mr. Phillips seems bored or anxious, the staff gives him an activity from his "Busy Box" to occupy his attention. As a result, Mr. Phillips uses his time in a productive, meaningful way and reduces the risk of injury from falls.

All funds raised through First Southern National Bank's sponsorship of the "Walk for Active Aging" will go directly toward the purchase of materials for Golden Living's Dementia Care Program, much like the materials used in Mr. Phillips' "Busy Box."

How can you be involved? Come to the Golden Living Center at 105 Harmon Heights on Friday, Sept. 27 between the hours of noon and 2 p.m. You can take advantage of free wellness checks, register for door prizes, and take a short walk around the block to "Walk for Active Aging." The staff and residents of Golden Living look forward to meeting you!

For more information, call Golden Living Center at (606) 365-2141.

Stroke is fourth-leading cause of death in adults

By James A. Turpin, M.D.

In the United States, stroke is the fourth-leading cause of death and the leading cause of disability among adults. High blood pressure, smoking, heart disease and diabetes are the risks and conditions associated with stroke, which can take years to develop.

According to the American Stroke Association, nearly 795,000 people in the United States have a stroke each year, and 137,000 people die as a result. The rate of disability and death from stroke is higher for women, perhaps because their symptoms are less typical and may go unnoticed.

If you suspect someone has had a stroke, it’s important that medical attention is sought immediately, preferably within the first three hours of symptoms. Even a short delay in treatment can mean the difference between complete recovery and permanent disability. Clot-busting drugs can restore blood flow but are most effective when administered early.

Most strokes occur when a clot blocks an artery, cutting off blood flow to the brain. The affected brain cells immediately become damaged or die within minutes of not receiving oxygen and important nutrients.

Stroke symptoms include weakness, numbness or paralysis of the face, arm or leg, especially on one side of the body; blurred vision in one or both eyes; loss of balance or coordination; sudden, severe and unexplained headache; extremely sudden nausea, fever and vomiting; and brief loss of consciousness or fainting.

In many instances, someone who has suffered a stroke will require rehabilitation, which should begin as soon as the patient has been stabilized. Although rehabilitation will not reverse the effects of the stroke, it will make a person stronger.

Individuals can reduce their risks for stroke by maintaining a healthy weight, not smoking, exercising regularly, following a low-fat diet that includes fruits and vegetables, and keeping their diabetes under control.

Dr. James A. Turpin is medical director of Ephraim McDowell Fort Logan Hospital’s Emergency Department.

News from Kings Mountain area

By Violet Bell/Beverly Murphy

Last Saturday, Evelyn Terry's daughter Connie and Carl treated Evelyn to a celebration dinner at the Golden Corral in Somerset. The dinner was to celebrate the fact that Evelyn is now feeling so much better and they enjoyed their meal and time together.

Word has reached us that Evelyn's sister Ethylene Johnson, who resides in Ohio, has not been feeling well and she has been having tests made to see what the problem might be. Take care Ethylene and get better soon we love you.

I received a lovely letter this past week from Violet James concerning the Laswell Family. The descendants of the late Harrison and Margaret Butt Laswell met at the Indian Trails Campground in Batesville, Ind. for their annual family reunion on Aug. 8, 9 and 10. Gary Laswell has had a membership there for several years. It is a beautiful campground. Over 100 family members attended, occupying 30 cabins. On that Saturday, they all gathered at the Club House where each family had prepared and brought their favorite food. Later the adults visited while the children played games and got reacquainted with their cousins that they see once a year. They came from Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Tennessee and South Carolina. On Sunday they reluctantly returned to their homes. I have often written about the Laswell Family and how close they have remained throughout the years and despite their distance apart. I know a few of the Laswell family members and I have always been impressed by the fact that they always get together as a family each year no matter how far they have to travel. It was indeed a joy to receive this letter and I look forward to hearing more about this family. By the way, this park where they held their reunion in Batesville, Ind., is located about 15 miles from where my late husband Kerry and I used to live. It is a small world.

I visited with Violet Bell last week and she is doing well and we had a wonderful visit.

Fruits and vegetables create a healthier you

By Anne Davis, A.P.R.N.

The importance of eating fruits and vegetables is a well-known fact, but are you actually eating enough of them? The recommended number of servings of fruits and vegetables daily is five or more, but unfortunately only about 23 percent of Americans actually eat this amount every day. Eating more fruits and vegetables is an easy change to make in your diet because these foods can effortlessly be incorporated into many popular dishes.

A diet comprised of the proper amount of fruits and vegetables may help reduce the risks of developing certain cancers, so eating the recommended amount is vital. About 35 percent of all cancer deaths in the United States may be related to diet, as estimated by The National Cancer Institute. A diet rich in these foods can also facilitate the lowering of a person's blood pressure.

Adding five or more servings of fruits and vegetables to your diet is much simpler than you think. Some examples of one serving of fruits and vegetables include one medium fruit, six ounces of 100 percent fruit or vegetable juice, half a cup of cooked or canned vegetables or fruit, one cup of raw leafy vegetables, half a cup of dried peas or beans, or one-fourth cup of dried fruit.

Try some of these suggestions in order to add more fruits and vegetables to your daily diet:

- Make smoothies in the morning using fresh or frozen berries, ice and vanilla yogurt.
- Have fruit or juice at breakfast. Add banana or raisins to your cereal to give something normal a new kick.
- Add strawberries, blueberries, bananas and other brightly-colored fruits to waffles, pancakes, French toast or regular toast.

- Buy ready-made salads for a quick salad for lunch.

- Leave bags of dried fruit in your car and at your desk for a healthy snack

- If you have to eat on the move, choose portable fruits like apples, pears or bananas.

- Incorporate fresh or frozen vegetables into pasta, lasagna or an omelet.

INDICTMENT

From A1

According to the indictment, issued last week in U.S. District Court in Lexington, Janice J. Curry, 52, of Stanford was charged with one count of theft of public money for allegedly embezzling, stealing or purloining about $61,353 from Veterans Affairs.

The alleged thefts occurred “without interruption” between May 2005 and May of this year “at Lincoln County and elsewhere in the Eastern District of Kentucky.”

Kyle Edelen, spokesman for the U.S. Attorney’s office in Lexington, said this morning he could not comment further on the case due Department of Justice media policies.

According to court records, Curry has been summoned to make her first appearance in the case on Oct.1.

If convicted, Curry faces a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and fines up to $250,000, plus reimbursement.

off-duty when he spotted people taking metal from a building nearby.

After asking others about the men, Fred McCoy said he determined the men were stealing the metal and went and stopped them as they were trying to leave town.

"I wrote them both citations for theft by unlawful taking and told them to put the metal back," he said.

But Fred McCoy said he observed the men only return a few pieces of the metal they had taken before trying to drive off again. McCoy pursued, pulled them over and began to arrest them. That's when the passenger — Coates — allegedly pushed the police chief into the car door and took off running for Hanging Fork Creek.

Bobby McCoy was having dinner nearby and spotted a commotion and then saw the man running, Fred McCoy said. Bobby McCoy left his dinner for later and took off on foot to try to catch the man.

"He used to run cross-country in high school, so he went by me like a jet," the older McCoy said.

Gray and Crow also saw the chase happening and got in their vehicles, driving ahead of where the running man was headed in order to cut off escape points, Peyton said.

When the runner and the two McCoy's reached Hanging Fork Creek, the runner and police chief slipped on slime-covered rocks. At some point during the incident — either when Coates allegedly pushed Fred McCoy into the car door or when Fred McCoy slipped on the rocks — the police chief injured his arm, possibly fracturing the bone.

After the two fell, Fred McCoy was able to arrest Coates, who was lodged in the Lincoln County Regional Jail.

Fred McCoy downplayed the incident and his injury, saying "other cops do it every day — it's no big deal."

He said the three citizens "were definitely a factor in Coates' apprehension," and added he "cannot thank them enough."

Peyton wasn't shy about showing his admiration for the effort put forth by the local citizens.

"I thought it was outstanding that private citizens didn't hesitate to come to his aid," Peyton said. "They just knew someone was running from Fred and we don't tolerate that here."

The plaques of recognition are expected to be presented at Hustonville's next city council meeting, scheduled for 7 p.m. Oct. 1.

Fred McCoy has been to a doctor for his injury and has to wear a brace but has been cleared to return to work. He has to return to the doctor for more tests on his arm next week.

Coates has been charged with first-degree assault of a police officer, second-degree escape, first-degree criminal mischief and alcohol intoxication in a public place. He's also accused of violating his parole, according to jail records.

As of Tuesday, Coates was being held without bond in the Lincoln County Regional Jail. His next court appearance is scheduled for 2 p.m. Monday.

Lincoln raises landfill fees on out-of-county dumpers

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — Lincoln County government expects to gain about $67,500 over the next nine months thanks to an increase in landfill fees on out-of-county dumpers.

County magistrates approved Tuesday a rate hike of 25 cents per ton on trash that's transported into Lincoln County and dumped at the Tri-K Landfill in the Hall's Gap area.

"It is on out-of-county trash only. It does not affect the rates on people living inside of Lincoln County," Magistrate David Faulkner said.

For the rest of September, the county will collect $1 for every ton of waste dumped in the landfill. Beginning Oct. 1, that rate will go to $1.25 per ton for waste haulers coming from Lexington and other areas outside the county. The fee will stay at $1 per ton for in-county waste.

Faulkner said last year, about 366,000 tons of waste was dumped in the landfill. Only about 12,000 tons of that originated in Lincoln County, he said.

That means outside haulers trucked around 354,000 tons of trash into the county, Faulkner explained.

"(The out-of-county haulers) should be paying the bulk of the expense for the county to allow that to happen," he said.

Adams said out-of-county waste haulers have been made aware of the planned price hike and "there was no resistance on their part whatsoever."

Negotiations earlier this year over possible landfill fee increases got heated, with one representative for a major waste-hauling company walking out on talks with county officials.

Faulkner said magistrates may need to consider upping the out-of-county fees again next year if the county continues to struggle for revenue to cover its expenses.

"We're facing the same revenue issue next budget cycle and we're going to have to re-address this because it's obvious that the county tax rate — the property tax — it's not a popular thing to look at," Faulkner said, referencing the court's recent decision to avoid a substantial property tax increase following a public hearing. "I think this is where we would probably look next year if we're facing the same crunch."

Patrick Rogers appears in Lincoln County District Court Monday afternoon. Rogers has pleaded not guilty to kidnapping and burglary.

ond-degree burglary for allegedly entering Shearer's home in the Rowland community east of Stanford in August and taking the infant out of its crib.

Shearer confronted Rogers as he was walking down the road with the boy and recovered his son, who was not harmed, before calling 911 to report the incident.

According to a recording of the 911 call, Shearer told a dispatcher that he had just safely recovered his son and ran Rogers off his property.

"He came in my house and took my baby out of baby's baby bed and was walking up the road with it," Shearer says on the recording. "When he heard me yelling, he turned and brought him back into the yard, tried to tell me that he found him walking out in the yard and I know the baby can't get out of his baby bed."

Rogers pleaded not guilty last week, telling District Judge Janet Booth that Shearer had overreacted to the situation. He said he found the boy unattended on the porch and just wanted to hold him.

"I picked the kid up and the minute I turned around and walked off the porch — and here he is, running out there behind me," Rogers said at the Sept. 5 hearing.

"I just wanted to hug him. He's about the only family I got left," Rogers said after the hearing, as he was being led away from court in shackles and an orange jumpsuit. "I just wanted to hug him, and this is what it got me."

Rogers has claimed he is related to the infant, but Shearer said Monday that is not the case. Shearer used to be married to Rogers' sister, but that was 10 years ago, he said.

Shearer is now remarried and his child is the son of his current wife, so the infant and Rogers have "no relation at all," he explained.

Rogers has an extensive criminal record, including felony convictions in Lincoln and Pulaski counties, Shearer said. Shearer said he is going to press prosecutors to seek persistent felony offender indictments from the grand jury.

"He's got a record a mile long," Shearer said.

PRINTING

both dailies, and The Jessamine Journal of Nicholasville, a weekly. The weeklies currently are printed in Danville on the same printing press as The Advocate.

The Danville press will be shut down and dismantled and the printing operations transferred on a date to be determined as progress is made on an upgrade to the Winchester press. The move also will result in the closure of the Danville operation's pre-distribution facility, the transfer of its insertion machinery, and the sale if its sheet-fed press, which is used for smaller printing jobs.

Nine full-time and two part-time positions have been eliminated at the Danville plant.

However, three of the people whose jobs have been eliminated have been offered full-time employment in Winchester.

"This has been a difficult decision," Schurz said. "We have dedicated and hard-working employees. Ultimately, we have chosen to make the move to a more reliable press with additional color and quality elements to benefit our customers and give our communities the best possible products."

Schurz said the goal is to produce newspapers for all the company's central Kentucky properties that display clear and sharp color reproduction. "With the consolidation of our production process to our Winchester Sun location, our readers, advertisers and commercial print customers will all notice an improved product," he said.

Schurz explained that it is no longer feasible to operate and maintain two presses, each operating just a few hours a day, and that the Winchester press produces a higher quality of printing. The Danville press also is older, more costly to maintain and replacing it would be too expensive, Schurz said.

"This move is a difficult one for our newsrooms, especially in Danville," said ACI Executive Editor John Nelson, who is also executive editor of The Interior Journal. "We will be saying goodbye to several friends and co-workers with whom we have had longstanding relationships, and we will have to adjust to the fact that an iconic machine that has produced our work every day for many years is going away. But this is a necessary move designed not only to produce a better-looking product but an opportunity to focus our energy on producing better content both in print and online."

Nelson said the move will require some schedule changes, but he anticipates no further staff reductions or interruption in news flow.

AMBULANCE

responding to 911 calls in the McKinney area since the McKinney Rescue Squad shuttered its emergency-response services in mid-May.

Powell said the ambulance and crew that are moving to the McKinney-area fire station would normally operate out of Stanford EMS headquarters along U.S. 27.

"While we have (a crew in McKinney), I would say it would improve your response times by about 10-15 minutes in that area," he said. "I can't say that this would be a long-term solution ... this is a temporary solution."

McKinney Rescue Squad's board has been working to regain their state license to make ambulance runs ever since they say their former operations director Steve Wood unexpectedly and without permission ordered the service to shut down on May 17.

Board members have alleged Wood sent a text message while out-of-state, ordering the on-duty personnel to go home. Wood then reported the closure to the Kentucky Board of Emergency Medical Services, causing the state regulatory agency to revoke the squad's license, they have claimed.

The board has reapplied for a certificate of need, but can't receive final approval for that document until mid-December at the earliest. After that, the organization would still have to receive a new license from the state.

Monday night, the McKinney board voted to open negotiations with Stanford EMS to offer living space and a vehicle bay at McKinney Rescue Squad for Stanford's new McKinney-based crew.

"They're going to be here either way it goes. They'll either be sitting up at (the fire station) or they could be down here," McKinney board member Mike Oney said. "I think it would be beneficial for them to be down here."

McKinney board members said they could possibly let Stanford EMS use their facilities for the cost of water and electric utilities.

Powell said Tuesday Stanford EMS hasn't yet finalized a financial deal with the county fire department for use of its station. Once he has official proposals from the fire department and McKinney Rescue Squad, his board of directors will choose which one is preferable, he said.

Neither building has a more or less advantageous geographical position in the area, Powell said.

Lincoln may pay to fix Hustonville 911 call problems

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — Problems with 911 calls in the Hustonville area could be resolved at least temporarily if Lincoln County magistrates agree later this month to pay Windstream Communications thousands of dollars.

Lincoln County Judge-Executive Jim Adams said Tuesday he plans to propose spending $7,000 to $8,000 in order to have Windstream fix a call-routing problem that sends about 1,300 Lincoln County landlines to Casey County dispatch when they call 911.

Casey County dispatchers have to determine when callers are in Lincoln County and then transfer them to Bluegrass 911, which serves Lincoln and Garrard counties.

Adams said while the fix is expensive, he thinks it's necessary because a different, cheaper solution to the problem is probably still a year away from becoming reality.

The affected landlines are on the 346 exchange in the Hustonville area, where Windstream owns the telephone trunklines. Windstream currently charges Casey County less than $900 per year to send all 911 calls on the 346 exchange to Casey dispatch.

But Windstream wants almost $8,000 per year from Bluegrass 911 to update the network and route the calls properly.

Bluegrass 911 officials have said they think Windstream is trying to gouge them for extra money and warned they believe Windstream will be at least partially liable if call delays contribute to a preventable death.

In order to dodge Windstream's fees, Bluegrass 911 Director Russ Clark worked with Casey County Judge-Executive Ronald Wright to get Casey County approved for a grant to join a regional 911 call-routing center.

But while Casey County now has the funding to join the call-routing center, Wright has said doing so could potentially cause more call-routing problems in Casey and other counties.

While those kinks are ironed out, Adams said he thinks Lincoln County Fiscal Court could take the hit and pay Windstream to fix the problem.

"This is going to take about a year, at least," Adams said. "And I'm not sure what Casey County is going to do."

Adams noted the county is already having to contribute funds toward 911 service while Bluegrass 911 fights a lawsuit over proposed funding changes. And if Casey County still hasn't joined the regional phone network after a year, it's possible Lincoln County would have to consider paying Windstream for another year of call-routing service, he said.

Magistrates could vote on paying Windstream at the next fiscal court meeting, currently scheduled for Sept. 24.

Showing some MUSCLE

A big crowd showed up Saturday night at the Lincoln County Fairgrounds for a Kentuckiana Truck Pullers Association pulling event and a huge fireworks show.

The fireworks were leftover from the 2013 Lincoln County Fair, which was largely rained out the last three days, including the night of July 4, when the fair traditionally holds a fireworks show.

The pulling event was held in memory of Mickey Goodwin, a well-known Lincoln County resident who was killed in a motorcycle wreck Aug. 30.

Goodwin was a track worker at the fairgrounds for many years.

Feds: Danville man used faith to steal millions

By Todd Kleffman
tkleffman@schurz.com

LEXINGTON — Christopher Turner faked his Christian beliefs to lure investors to his failing businesses, telling them his enterprises were “God’s plan” while bilking them out of more than $4 million.

And he used a lot that money, which he never intended to repay, to feather his own nest.

Those are the newest allegations by federal prosecutors against Turner, the Danville native behind Go Go Gorillas and other Christian-themed ventures, in a new superceding indictment that was filed Thursday in U.S. District Court in Lexington.

Turner’s trial on five counts of wire and mail fraud and one count of aggravated identity theft was scheduled to begin Monday but was postponed for the third time after the latest indictment was returned. A new trial date has not yet been set.

Among the different allegations against him, Turner is accused of pledging the property of Ilene Severance of Stanford as a guarantee of repayment on a debt without Severance’s knowledge and then forging her name on related documents. Turner also allegedly forged the signature of David Christopher Turner is accused of telling investors his Christian enterprises were “God’s plan” while taking their money without a plan of his own to pay them back.

Harris as a notary public on the documents, leading to an identity theft allegation.

Federal agents, along with state and local police, raided Danville-based Go Go Gorillas Fun Center in Ridgefield shopping center, Turner’s Grace Global Media office in Greenleaf shopping center and his home on Colonial Way in August 2012, seizing computers, documents and other records used to indict Turner in April.

A superceding indictment was issued last month adding more substance to the fraud allegations and a second superceding indictment returned last week lays out the government’s case against Turner in the strongest language yet.

According to the latest indictment, Turner began various business ventures under the umbrella of Grace Corp. in Danville in 2005 to develop a television show, movie and fun centers based on animated characters The Avenging Apes of Africa. The TV show and movie failed, followed by Go Go Gorillas, which opened in December 2010 and closed in July 2012, shortly before it was raided by authorities.

In the course of raising money for his businesses, “Turner borrowed money, leased equipment and automobiles, and obtained credit from commercial lending institutions,” the indictment states. “Typically, Turner borrowed these funds, established lines of credit or entered into leases utilizing the names, assets and credit worthiness of others because Turner was not credit worthy himself.

“At times, Turner induced investors to sign personal guarantees or co-sign on notes. Turner also had investors pledge collateral such a real estate, notes and mortgages to obtain commercial loans. The total amount of money obtained by Turner...was in excess of $4 million.”

According to the indictment, Turner deceived investors about how the money was being used. He also obtained credit cards and loans using their personal identifiers without their knowledge or permission, and forged their names, and “engaged in a pattern of borrowing money without intending to repay it.” He never allowed anyone to view financial records of the businesses.

“All of these actions allowed Turner to raise money under false pretenses and divert much of the money for his personal use and enjoyment,” the indictment states.

Under a section of the indictment titled “Manner and Means,” it states, “It was part of the scheme and artifice to defraud that Turner employed a feigned religiosity, with repeated references to Grace Corp. ventures being God’s plan, so as to influence persons to invest or loan money, to allow him to use their good credit rating to obtain loans, and to placate their fears and reservations whenever the business plan seemed to be failing.”

Also, “It was part of the scheme to defraud that Turner solicited funds from investors or lenders on the basis of an alleged temporary urgent need for the infusion of additional capital to prevent the business venture from failing and causing all prior investments to be lost. Typically, Turner would tell the investor that the money was needed to bridge a funding gap for a few days or weeks, when, in fact, he no intention of repaying the money.”

Lexington attorney Benny Hicks, who was assigned to represent Turner from a pool of public defenders, could not be reached for comment.

If convicted, Turner faces a maximum sentence of 20 years on the fraud charges and an additional two years if convicted of identity theft, plus fines of up to $500,000 and restitution.

Lincoln dominates in 6-0 rout of Danville

By Nancy Leedy
STANFORD — The Lincoln County High School girls soccer team continued its early season roll Tuesday with a dominant 6-0 win over 45th District rival Danville.

The Lady Patriots (6-1-1, 2-1 district) took some time to score their first goal, but once they found the gas pedal they cruised past the Lady Admirals (2-7, 0-2).

“We just came out playing really hard,” said senior forward Rachel Spangler, who notched a hat trick in the win. “The heat really takes a toll on you, and I think that’s why we were a little slow tonight early, but we ended up playing really hard, definitely the second half.”

Lincoln enjoyed offensive and defensive domination in Tuesday’s win, with junior forwards Misty Simpson and Kristen Meece completing the Lady Pat tally, with two goals for Simpson and one for Meece as the team out-shot Danville 23-2 in the shutout.

“We played real well,” Lincoln coach Andrew Kaiser said. “I felt like we controlled the ball real well. I thought we did a great job. We just kind of pushed the ball up and were able to feed it to the outside and it really helped.”

“Everybody was working today. It was nice to see everybody just moving and being where they are supposed to be.”

The game was played in front of the Danville goal for most of the night as Lincoln peppered in the shots on Lady Admiral goalkeeper

Four Lady Pat golfers hit career lows at Dix River

By Nancy Leedy
Lincoln County Lady Patriot golfers Kaycie Bandura, Maggie Taylor, Gentry Lewis and Jacque Upchurch hit a new low on the links this week – career lows.

Bandura got the “lows” started on Monday by firing her career best, a 2-over-par 38 at Dix River Golf Course. On Tuesday, Taylor, Lewis and Upchurch followed suit with their own career lows. Taylor shot a 39 to lead Lincoln, Lewis had her low round of 40 and Upchurch had her best round of 49.

Unfortunately, Lincoln could not celebrate the low rounds with match wins. Rockcastle posted a 10-stroke win over Lincoln on Monday and, despite their three “lows,” the Lady Patriots finished in a tie with Casey County on Tuesday.

Rockcastle’s Hannabeth Owens matched Bandura’s 38 Monday as the visiting Lady Rockets outshot Lincoln 173-183. Rockcastle got 40s from all its players in the win, with Callie Asher shooting a 44, Mackenzie King, a 45 and

Lincoln volleyball team struggles in 3-0 loss to Garrard

By Nancy Leedy
LANCASTER — The Lincoln County volleyball team’s hopes for a 45th District sweep were shot down Thursday night by host Garrard County.

Garrard (6-3, 1-1 45th District) won in straight sets, defeating a lackluster

Lincoln team 25-13, 25-18, 25-23.

Lincoln (2-7, 2-1) played a close game with Garrard in the final set of the match, but it was too little, too late with the Lady Golden Lions controlling the first two sets of the best-of-5 match.

“You don’t want to have an off night on a district night so that wasn’t what we were hoping for,” Lady Patriot coach Amanda Wiles said. “It wasn’t Lincoln volleyball at all. We were really out of sync this evening, completely out of sync.”

Wiles felt the off-kilter match was related to the recent loss of senior libero Cailen Brown, who has been sidelined by a knee injury.

“We did suffer an injury and we had to make some lineup changes, and I think that really affected our communication because that’s all it was was communication,” said Wiles. “If we’d had better communication in the game, it would have changed the entire thing. We had a lot to offer by way of offense but without Cailen you could see we were having trouble with defense to get the pass off to execute our offense. We just couldn’t communicate it well.”

Garrard held the upper hand for most of Thursday’s match, with Lincoln falling behind early in both the first and second sets. The Lady Patriots did get up on the Lady Lions 1-0 in the first match, but it didn’t take Garrard long to edge on top 2-1 and pull away. The Lady Lions led by as many as 12 points, 22-10, before taking the first set 25-13.

Garrard trailed only briefly in its second-set win. The Lady Lions scored six straight points to go up 9-5 and never looked back, handing Lincoln the 25-18 loss.

The Lady Patriots came out and challenged the Lady Lions in set three, though. Lincoln’s Jessica Olsen served up five straight points to help the Lady Pats to a 16-11 lead over the Lady Lions. But Olsen’s scoring run would be undone by Garrard as the Lady Lions rolled off six straight points to go on top 22-21. Garrard

Lincoln girls shut out previously unbeaten Garrard 7-0

By Mike Marsee

LANCASTER — It was bound to happen some time, and Lincoln County was there to make sure this would be the night.

The Garrard County girls were the last undefeated soccer team in the 12th Region, girls or boys, but Lincoln put an end to that Thursday with a 7-0 rout.

The Lady Patriots, who reached the regional finals last year and are easily the toughest opponent the Lady Golden Lions have faced to date this year, scored less than three minutes into the game, opened a big lead late in the first half and kept the pressure on in the second to end Garrard's unbeaten run.

"They're more experienced than us, they were in better shape, they had better ball control than us," Garrard coach Erin Kluesener said. "It was inevitable we were going to lose at some point, but I'm proud of the girls."

Lincoln coach Andrew Kaiser had every reason to be proud, too, after his team took control of the game by scoring three times in a span of just over seven minutes to take a 4-0 lead with 3:15 remaining in the first half.

"I was real proud of the girls. I thought they played well. We started to move the ball at different times, and we did a good job," Kaiser said.

Kristen Meece had a hat trick and Rachel Spangler had two goals for Lincoln (5-1-1, 1-1 45th District), which extended its dominance over its nearest neighbor by extending its winning streak over Garrard (5-1-1, 0-1) to seven games in which the Lady Patriots have outscored the Lady Lions 39-1.

Kluesener said the loss showed her players that even though they have come a long way, they still have a long way to go.

"Just because we were undefeated doesn't mean that we are an amazing team. We have greatly improved since last year, but there's still a long way to go to be an elite school in soccer," she said.

Spangler scored from close range 2:34 into the game, which was delayed by 22 minutes at the start, then scored again in the 30th minute off a pass from Michaela Sebastian to start Lincoln's first-half flurry of goals.

Meece scored the first of her three goals in the 35th minute on a shot that glanced off Garrard goalkeeper McKenna Newman, and Adams scored from 15 yards out in the 37th minute.

"For the first 20 minutes we played hard. I feel like we hung with them," Kluesener said. "We played more of a defensive game, but we hustled, we played hard, and it kind of shows we're a young team."

Lincoln was coming off its first loss of the season two days earlier to Boyle County, and Kaiser said the Lady Patriots' win shows that they are continuing to improve.

"We've had a few injuries, but everybody's getting healthier, and it's definitely helped," he said. "We're doing good. We're still working on trying to possess the ball. That's where our main focus has been, but it's getting there."

Sissy Slone started the second-half scoring for Lincoln with a goal in the 62nd minute, and Meece scored twice in a 28-second span to finish.

Garrard didn't get off a shot in the second half, and the Lady Patriots outshot the Lady Lions 19-2 overall. Newman had five saves for Garrard. Lincoln goalkeeper Jerrica Kidd saved both Garrard shots.

Katie Nelson. The junior keeper did let five shots get by her, but she finished with seven saves.

It took 10 minutes, 49 seconds before Lincoln put up the first score. A handball in the box penalty against Danville set Lincoln up for the penalty kick, and Spangler punched in the ball to the left corner for a 1-0 lead.

Lincoln kept the Lady Admirals back on their heels with its continual presence around the goal and it would pay off before the first half ended. Macy Kaiser, playing her first game since suffering a concussion, crossed the ball over to Spangler from the corner and Spangler booted in her second goal with 1:05 left to put Lincoln up 2-0 at the half.

"We've been working on possession and we possessed the ball real well. We didn't give them many chances to score," Andrew Kaiser said.

Lincoln wasted little time scoring when the second half got under way.

Kristen Meece, who along with her twin sister, Kelsey, was spending her 16th birthday on the soccer field, celebrated the occasion with a goal just four minutes into the second period. Meece fielded the pass near mid-field, dribbled to center then shot from 20 yards out to make it 3-0.

Simpson followed with back-to-back goals to cushion Lincoln's lead. She hit first with 31 minutes on the clock, taking a pass in front of goal then punching in the shot. She followed six minutes later with her second goal, winning a foot race to the left corner for the ball then kicking the ball in behind Nelson to extend the lead to 5-0.

The Lady Patriots closed out their scoring with 12:28 left in the game when Spangler finished a pass from the outside from Kaiser with a header above Nelson's outstretched hands.

"Macy played a great ball on that goal," Spangler said. "That's her first game back from a concussion and she played hard."

Spangler may have led the team scoring in the win, but for her it's all about "team."

"I'm proud of my team today. I wouldn't have any of my goals today without them. They played great balls," she said. "We were missing one of our mid-fields, Maddie (Adams) got a concussion so she's out a little bit, but we still played well I think. We fed some balls good and we played together as a team."

Kaiser couldn't agree more.

"We worked as a team. We certainly missed Maddie, but we worked as a team and everybody communicated and we did well," he said. "I thought the girls did a great job."

Spangler said the team was just doing what their coach asked of them.

"We just played our game. Coach always says we have to come out hard, come out focused," she said. "We have a problem getting focused sometimes, which we are working on and we're doing better on. I thought we were focused tonight."

it up for him. And we did it.”

Hooper’s 24-yard touch-down return off a Lexington Christian fumble with 11 minutes, 12 seconds to play in the game tied the game at 21-all then Boone Baird capped off the 19-point turnaround by adding the point after kick for the lead.

But maintaining that one-point lead did not come easy. LCA quarterback Dima Ballard, who was 11-for-14 for 223 yards for the night, went 7-for-7 for 126 yards on the Eagles’ final two possessions only to be denied by the Lincoln defense.

The Eagles turned the ball over on downs on their next to last possession after Colin Duzyk, who caught 6 passes for 156 yards and a touch-down, got just a 9-yard reception on 4th-and-10. On the final drive, Ballard hit Adam Smith and Duzyk for passes of 26 and 45 yards to get LCA to the Lincoln 3 with just 4.4 seconds to play. Lincoln Henzman came on for a potential game-winning field goal, but the 20-yard attempt was wide left.

“It got a little scary late,” Hooper said. “But I’m just so proud of us. We stepped up. We just kept playing hard and got rewarded for it.”

Lincoln coach Mike Settles was also proud of the Patriots. “They deserve this. Our kids fought so hard. They gave their best the second half,” he said. “They miss Mickey big time, and we think he might have had a little something to do with that kick.”

Lincoln ate up a lot of clock getting it’s second-half comeback started. The Patriots took over at their own 47 after the Eagles punted away the opening possession. Eight minutes and 15 plays later, Lincoln finally hit paydirt, with Connor Patterson capping off the drive with a 1-yard plunge up the middle.

Two minutes later, Lincoln was cutting further into the LCA lead. A Dylan Lancaster fumble set the Patriots up at the Eagles’ 19. Four plays later, Marvin Robinson, who led Lincoln’s rushing attack with 66 yards on 17 carries, carried the ball in from 13 yards out to make it a 21-15 ballgame at the end of the third quarter.

The Patriots scored twice off Eagle fumbles in the second half, the second touchdown coming less than a minute into the fourth quarter. Hooper came away with the fumble after a blitz play and headed straight for the end zone.

“Coach called a blitz and I just hit it hard, and the next thing you know the ball is in my hands,” said Hooper. “It just feels unreal. It doesn’t feel like it happened. I just kind of blacked out and the next thing you know I was in the end zone.”

Settles praised Hooper for making the play to get Lincoln up on the scoreboard once again.

“Man he got the ball and he just made it happen,” Settles said. “That’s what you’ve got to do to win games. So many different guys made plays in this game the second half. We really responded and even that last tackle was a big play because the field goal determined the game.”

LINCOLN COACH Mike Settles, left, wipes tears from his eyes as Lexington Christian coach Ray Graham speaks to the Patriots after their 22-21 comeback win Friday. Graham and his Eagle football team helped raise scholarship money to honor the memory of Lincoln assistant Mickey Goodwin, who died in a motorcycle accident a week earlier. Over $1,400 was raised to help send Lincoln players to the Fellowship of Christian Athletes summer camp.

“Football is a game of inches, a game of seconds, and our kids made the plays to win.”

Lincoln held the early lead in the game, with Baird kicking a 27-yard field goal midway of the second quarter to put the Patriots up 3-0.

LCA took control after the field goal, though, scoring on its next three possessions.

Nick Whitman, who rushed for 106 yards on five carries, picked up most of his yardage on a 65-yard touchdown run 17 seconds after Baird’s kick.

Lancaster capped off a three-play, 51-yard drive with a 15-yard score and Duzyk made it 21-3 at the half off a 64-yard touchdown pass from Ballard.

The Eagles picked up 230 of its 350 yards offense in the first half.

“Big plays killed us the first half. But we came back and we shut them out in the second half,” Settles said. “I’m so proud of our kids. We challenged them at halftime to play the way they are capable of playing and playing for Lincoln County. That’s what they did.”

never trailed again, taking advantage of Lincoln errors to secure the 25-23 win.

"We finally did build the momentum we were looking for in the third set. We started to play much more like ourselves," Wiles said. "We were gaining once we got to the end of that last set and I think that was a good indicator that communication kinks will eventually work themselves out."

"We had some good kill moments, some good blocking moments. I'm pretty proud of our offense, but we must give ourselves a chance to execute it, and it all starts with a good pass."

Garrard denied Lincoln a district sweep by taking the match, but Wiles is not discouraged by the loss.

"We don't take this loss as a problem, we take it as an opportunity to learn," she said. "Tonight we just beat ourselves. We unforced-errored ourselves into oblivion. If we take out and start removing unforced errors and tighten up our own play I foresee lots better results in the feature."

Forage crop notes

This week I want to give you some recommendations on proper fall seeding and remind you to get alfalfa cut by Sept. 20. Alfalfa must be managed properly now in order for it to survive the winter. I'm sure you have had fields that looked good at the last summer cutting and then turned out to be a thin stand the next spring. More than likely the reason for this occurring was that somehow you weakened the stand. Several things cause alfalfa plants to be weakened, including low carbohydrates in the roots, low phosphorous and potassium levels in the soil, and a low pH level in the field. You can manage to avoid these conditions.

Carbohydrates in alfalfa roots supply energy to the plant through the winter. In order for root carbohydrates to be high going into the winter, plants need about 45 days between time of the last summer harvest and the first hard freeze. For this reason, I recommend that you take this cutting off by Sept. 20. Then don't cut it again until after Nov. 1. Then you can graze or cut off the growth that has accumulated and not weaken the plant. In fact, you should harvest or graze the alfalfa in November because it helps on weevil and disease control for the next year.

Now is also the time to make sure your fertility level is where it should be for your alfalfa-grass fields. Test your soil and apply the phosphorous, potash, and lime needed according to the test results and our recommendations. Don't delay on this job. You need to get the fertilizer on just as soon as you get done cutting this September harvest, so it can go to work to protect the plant this winter. Don't forget to put on some boron if you haven't already put it on this year. Two pounds of actual boron per acre is sufficient every other year. Help your alfalfa survive the winter by feeding it properly now. I can give you a general fertilization recommendation if you give me a call. But remember it is always best to soil test.

Fall seeding: wait until we get moisture or a sure chance of significant rain before you seed. Then use good seed management practices. The following practices should be followed to maximize the chances for success.

1) A FIRM seedbed is absolutely essential to prevent young seedlings from dying because a loose seedbed will dry out rapidly. For conventional tillage, get the soil worked up and then cultipack it before and after seeding, for no-till make sure press wheels firms the no-till slit.

2) Have the soil tested or apply 500 lbs. of 5-20-20 per acre at planting and then topdress with maintenance fertilizer and lime later as recommended by a soil test.

3) Sow good quality, new and improved varieties of clover, alfalfa, and grasses.

4) Legumes need at least six weeks to germinate and grow before the first hard freeze if they are to survive the winter. Our suggested best seeding dates are Aug. 1 to Sept. 25. You can seed grass a little later up to Oct. 5. The advantage of fall seeding is that successful fall seedings will produce a full crop in 2013, there is less weed competition during the fall establishment period. The disadvantages are the lack of soil moisture and an increased incidence of crown rot in alfalfa. However the benefits outweigh the problems. Do a good job now and you'll have a smile on your face and lots of pasture and hay next spring.

USDA reminds producers of important deadlines

Kentucky USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) Executive Director SED John W. McCauley reminds producers of two important Direct and Counter-Cyclical Program (DCP) deadlines this month.

Producers who have either not yet enrolled in DCP or have not yet signed their DCP contracts must do so by close of business Monday, Sept. 16. Contracts filed after this date will be elevated from the county office to the state office and will require State Committee action.

"It's easy to get distracted during the harried harvest season, but producers should be careful not to let their DCP contracts and other important FSA business slip through the cracks," said McCauley.

Additionally, McCauley reminds producers that any succession-in-interest changes made to an operation that affect interest in base acres since the current DCP contract on file was signed, must be reported to the local FSA office by close of business Monday, Sept. 30, 2013.

Changes that qualify as a succession-in-interest include:

- sale of land
- change of operator or producer, including an increase or decrease in the number of partners
- foreclosure, bankruptcy or involuntary loss of the farm
- change in producer shares to reflect changes in the producer's share of the crop(s) that were originally approved on the contract.

"In the event of a succession-in-interest, the 'predecessor,' is required to refund any advance DCP payments received for the affected base acres before a payment can be made to the 'successor,'" said McCauley. "Failure to report a succession-in-interest can result in contract termination and a loss of program benefits for all producers involved."

The American Taxpayer Relief Act of 2012, enacted on Jan. 2, 2013, amends the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 and provides for a one-year extension of the Direct and Counter-Cyclical (DCP) program.

There are two types of DCP payments: direct payments and counter-cyclical payments. Both are calculated using the base acres and payment yields established for the farm. DCP is administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farm Service Agency (FSA). Regulations covering the provisions for DCP appear at 7 CFR Part 1412.

Further information on DCP is available at local FSA offices or on FSA's DCP website at: www.fsa.usda.gov/dcp.

Money tip for students: Time to start repaying student loans

If you finished college in May and have student loans, it's almost time to begin repaying them. These tips from the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) may help.

One of the smartest things you can do is pay more than your scheduled payment amount. The extra is applied to the principal, so you will pay less interest over the life of your loan.

You should let your lender know if you change your name, address or phone number; if something changes your status, such as going back to school; or if you have problems making your payments.

You have several repayment plans from which to choose. The standard repayment plan calls for equal monthly payments over 10 years. The minimum monthly payment is usually $50. Other options include:

- Graduated repayment, which starts with lower repayment amounts that get higher over the maximum 10-year period.

- Income-sensitive repayment, with monthly payments based on gross income.

- Income-based or income-contingent repayment, with monthly amounts based on income and family size.

- Extended repayment, which lets you take up to 25 years to repay your student loans if you borrowed more than $30,000 and none of your loans were made before Oct. 7, 1998.

You will pay more interest over the life of the loan if you use any option other than standard repayment.

If you are having trouble making payments, contact your lender immediately. You may qualify for a deferment or forbearance, which can let you make lower payments or stop making payments temporarily.

KHEAA is the state agency that administers Kentucky's grant and scholarship programs. It provides free copies of "It's Money, Baby," a guide to financial literacy, to Kentucky schools and residents upon request at publications@kheaa.com.

THE STUDENT SECTION in the LCHS Death Valley Stadium bleachers was packed with Patriot fans during the football team's season opener against Boyle County in the PBK Death Valley Bowl. Those same seats should be filled with Lincoln fans again this Friday night as the Patriots host their rivals to the north, the Garrard County Golden Lions. Kick off for the "border war" is set for 7:30 p.m. Lincoln County is coming off an emotional 22-21 comeback win over Lexington Christian Academy. One Lincoln fan not in the bleachers for all of the PBK Death Valley Bowl was Shannon Stevens, left, who was Lincoln's Bowl Queen candidate. She was escorted by Austin Terry.
